COMMISSION

JANET A. BADSTIEBER,

CASE NO: 22C 0021

V.

PLATTE COUNTY BOARD OF EQUALIZATION,
APPELLEE.

DECISION AND ORDER
AFFIRMING THE DECISION OF THE PLATTE COUNTY
BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

For the Appellant:

Clark J. Grant,
Grant and Grant

For the Appellee:

Breanna D. Flaherty,
Platte County Attorney

This appeal was heard before Commissioners Keetle and Kuhn.

I. THE SUBJECT PROPERTY

The Subject Property is a one-acre commercial parcel located in Platte County, Nebraska, improved with 64 “conex buildings” or shipping containers (Storage Units) used for personal property storage. The legal description and Property Record File (PRF) of the Subject Property is found in Exhibit 4.

II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Platte County Assessor determined that the assessed value of the Subject Property was $220,875 for tax year 2022.¹ Janet A. Badstieber (the Taxpayer) protested the assessment to the Platte County Board of Equalization (the County Board) and requested a taxable value of $121,125. The County Board determined that the taxable value of the Subject Property for tax year 2022 was $220,875.²

The Taxpayer appealed the decision of the County Board to the Tax Equalization and Review Commission (the Commission). The Commission held a hearing on December 7, 2023. Prior to the hearing, the parties exchanged exhibits as ordered by the Commission. Exhibits 1 through 19 were admitted into evidence.

III. STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Commission's review of the County Board's determination is de novo.³ When the Commission considers an appeal of a decision of a county board of equalization, there are two burdens of proof.⁴ The first involves a presumption that the board of equalization has faithfully performed its official duties in making an assessment and has acted upon sufficient competent evidence to justify its action.⁵ That presumption remains until there is competent evidence to the contrary presented, and the presumption disappears when there is competent evidence adduced on appeal to the contrary.⁶

The second burden of proof requires that from that point forward, the reasonableness of the valuation fixed by the board of equalization becomes one of fact based upon all the evidence presented.⁷ The burden of showing such valuation to be unreasonable rests upon the taxpayer on appeal from the action of the board.⁸

The order, decision, determination or action appealed from shall be affirmed unless evidence is adduced establishing that the order, decision, determination, or action was unreasonable or arbitrary.⁹ Proof that the order, decision, determination, or action was unreasonable or arbitrary must be made by clear and convincing evidence.¹⁰

The Taxpayer must introduce competent evidence of actual value of the Subject Property in order to successfully claim that the Subject Property is overvalued.¹¹ The County Board need not put on any evidence to support its valuation of the property at issue unless the Taxpayer establishes that the County Board's valuation was unreasonable or arbitrary.¹²

In an appeal, the Commission may determine any question raised in the proceeding upon which an order, decision, determination, or action appealed from is based.¹³ The Commission may consider all questions necessary to determine taxable value of property as it hears an appeal or cross appeal.¹⁴ The Commission may take notice of judicially cognizable facts, may take notice of general, technical, or scientific facts within its specialized knowledge, and may utilize its experience, technical competence, and specialized knowledge in the evaluation of the evidence presented to it.¹⁵ The Commission's Decision

IV. RELEVANT LAW

Under Nebraska law,

Actual value is the most probable price expressed in terms of money that a property will bring if exposed for sale in the open market, or in an arm's length transaction, between a willing buyer and a willing seller, both of whom are knowledgeable concerning all the uses to which the real property is adapted and for which the real property is capable of being used. In analyzing the uses and restrictions applicable to real property the analysis shall include a full description of the physical characteristics of the real property and an identification of the property rights valued.¹⁷

Actual value may be determined using professionally accepted mass appraisal methods, including, but not limited to, the (1) sales comparison approach using the guidelines in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-1371, (2) income approach, and (3) cost approach.¹⁸ Nebraska courts have held that actual value, market value, and fair market value mean exactly the same thing.¹⁹ Taxable value is the percentage of actual value subject to taxation as directed by Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-201 and has the same meaning as assessed value.²⁰ All real property in Nebraska subject to taxation shall be assessed as of January 1.²¹ All taxable real property, with the exception of agricultural land and horticultural land, shall be valued at actual value for purposes of taxation.²²

Taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all real property and franchises as defined by the Legislature except as otherwise provided in or permitted by the Nebraska Constitution.²³ “Equalization is the process of ensuring that all taxable property is placed on the assessment rolls at a uniform percentage of its actual value.”²⁴ The purpose of equalization of assessments is to bring the assessment of different parts of a taxing district to the same relative standard, so that no one of the parts may be compelled to pay a disproportionate part of the tax.²⁵ Uniformity requires that whatever methods are used to determine actual or taxable value for various classifications of real property that the results be correlated to show uniformity.²⁶ Taxpayers are entitled to have their property assessed uniformly and proportionately, even though the result may be that it is assessed at less than the actual value.²⁷ If taxable values are to be equalized it is necessary for a Taxpayer to establish by clear and convincing evidence that the valuation placed on the property when compared with valuations placed on other similar properties is grossly excessive and is the result of systematic exercise of intentional will or failure of plain legal duty, and not mere errors of judgment.²⁸ There must be something more, something which in effect amounts to an intentional violation of the essential principle of practical uniformity.²⁹

V. FINDINGS OF FACT AND ANALYSIS

A. Summary of the Evidence

The Subject Property is a one-acre commercial parcel located in Platte County Nebraska.⁴⁰ The Subject Property is operated together with two other parcels as a storage business, renting out space for storing personal items. Chad Badstieber (Badstieber) testified that the sixty-four Storage Units on the Subject Property are shipping containers that are sitting on, but not attached to, concrete pads. Badstieber testified that the Storage Units can be winched onto a trailer and moved, and that they have no utilities or electricity run to them. The Storage Units are rented out for a monthly fee and used for personal storage.

Badstieber asserted that prior to tax year 2020 the Storage Units on the Subject Property were taxed as personal property, and that he had included them as depreciable personal property on his tax returns. Badstieber further asserted that the Storage Units should be considered trade fixtures and classified as personal property, not real property.

The County Board offered the testimony of Tom Placzek, who was the Platte County Assessor from 2011 through 2022, and set the assessed value for the Subject Property. Placzek testified that he attended a training course in 2019 where the Nebraska Department of Revenue, Property Assessment Division advised assessors that storage containers should be assessed as real property. Starting with the year 2020 assessment, all storage containers like the Storage Units on the Subject Property were placed on the assessment rolls as real property.⁴¹

The County Board offered photographs of the Storage Units located on the Subject Property, as well as the Property Record File (PRF) for the Subject Property and other nearby properties used for storage businesses. Placzek testified that the individual Storage Units did not have electricity, there were lights located on the Subject Property to allow it to be used as self-storage. Placzek testified that he valued the Subject Property as ministorage using the cost approach to value.⁴² For 2022 the total assessed value of the Subject Property, including the value for the sixty-four Storage Units as real property, was $$220,875.

B. Analysis

There is little disagreement about the facts in this case. Rather the disagreement relates to the application of the law to these facts.

⁴¹ See Exhibit 3.

⁴² See also Exhibit 4:3.

Neither party disputed the valuation of the land component of the Subject Property at $14,000. The Taxpayer offered no evidence to dispute that value. The only issue in this appeal is the classification of the Storage Units as real property or personal property.

1. Are the Storage Units on the Subject Property Real Property?

The County Assessor asserted that the Storage Units should be classified as real property. The record does not reveal the basis for the County Board’s determination other than its statement that the value is, “Per the decision of the Platte County Board of Equalization.”⁴³ The Taxpayer’s requested valuation of the Subject Property is based upon his assertion the Storage Units are trade fixtures and therefore personal property. To determine the appropriate classification of the Storage Units for purposes of taxable value, we must give thorough consideration to the applicable statutory and regulatory language. We initially turn to whether the Storage Units qualify as real property. We note that for purposes of property valuation, the Storage Units cannot be both real property and personal property. They must be one or the other since personal property is defined as, “all property other than real property.”⁴⁴

We first address whether the Storage Units should be classified as real property. Real property includes “all buildings, improvements, and fixtures.”⁴⁵ We consider each in turn.

a. Are the Storage Units Buildings?

According to Section 77-103(2), all buildings are real property.⁴⁶ The term “buildings” is not defined in Section 77-103 or in Sections 77-102 to 77-132.⁴⁷ The Nebraska Department of Revenue’s applicable

⁴³ Exhibit 1.

regulations (Rules & Regulations) define a building as, “an improvement to real property enclosing a space within its walls and usually, but not necessarily, covered by a roof and designed for habitation, shelter, storage, business, trade, or manufacture.”⁴⁸ “Building” is further defined as “[a] structure with walls and a roof, esp. a permanent structure.”⁴⁹

The function of the Storage Units as organized and aligned on the Subject Property by the Taxpayer is to provide a secure, weatherproof, and accessible space for renters to store their personal belongings. In this respect, the Storage Units function no differently than they would if they were built from standard building materials. We therefore find that the Storage Units are buildings.

b. Are the Storage Units Improvements?

Since we find above that the Storage Units are “buildings,” we also find that the Storage Units are “improvements,” under Section 77-103(2), because they are an “improvement” to the real property (the land) enclosing a space within its walls and designed and functioning as a shelter for personal belongings being stored by renters. According to Section 77-103(2), all improvements are real property. The term “improvements” is also not defined in Sections 77-102 to 77-132. However, the Rules & Regulations define improvements as, “any addition made to real property, amounting to more than a repair, such as sidewalks, streets, sewers, or utilities.”⁵⁰

We find the Storage Units are improvements because they function as an addition to the Subject Property that is substantially more than a repair, sidewalk, street, sewer, or utility. Without the Storage Units, none of the personal belongings would be able to be stored on the Subject Property in a secure or weatherproof manner.

⁴⁹ Black’s Law Dictionary 242 (11th ed. 2019).

⁵⁰ Title 350 Neb. Admin. Code ch 10, § 002.18D (10/2014).

c. Are the Storage Units Fixtures?

According to Section 77-103(2), all fixtures are real property. Again, the term “fixtures” is not defined in Sections 77-102 to 77-132. However, Rules & Regulations define “fixtures” as,

[A]ny item of property that is:

- (1) Annexed or physically attached to or incorporated into the real property;
- (2) Appropriated to the use of the real property to which it is annexed. If the property is a necessary or useful addition to the real property to which it is annexed, then it has been appropriated to the use or purpose of the real property; and
- (3) Intended to be annexed to the real property. Intention is inferred from the nature and extent of the annexation and appropriation, unless the owner of the real property provides documentation that the intention is otherwise.⁵¹

Since we have found that the Storage Units are real property because they are buildings and improvements, and buildings, improvements, and fixtures are all real property, we need not consider whether they are fixtures, as contemplated by Section 77-103(2).⁵²

d. Are the Storage Units Trade Fixtures?

Finally, since Section 77-103(2) contains an exception for “trade fixtures,” we must consider whether the Storage Units are “trade fixtures.” According to Section 77-103(2), real property does not include trade fixtures, which are deemed to be personal property.⁵³ The term “trade fixtures” is defined in Section 77-105 as “machinery and equipment, regardless of the degree of attachment to real property, used directly in commercial, manufacturing, or processing activities

⁵¹ Title 350 Neb. Admin. Code ch 10, § 002.18B (10/2014).

⁵² The Commission follows the rule that “An appellate [tribunal] is not obligated to engage in analysis that is not necessary to adjudicate the case and controversy before it.” Acklie v Nebraska Dept. of Rev., 313 Neb. 28, 982 N.W.2d 228 (2022) (Syllabus by the Court).

⁵³ Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-103(2) (Cum. Supp. 2020) (“Real property shall mean ... (2) All buildings, improvements, and fixtures, except trade fixtures”). See also Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-104 (Reissue 2018) (“The term personal property includes all property other than real property and franchises.”).

conducted on real property, regardless of whether the real property is owned or leased...”⁵⁴

The Rules & Regulations define a “trade fixture” as,

“an item of machinery or equipment, used in commercial, manufacturing, or processing activities. The degree of attachment does not influence the classification of the machinery or equipment as real property. Trade fixtures are items of personal property which are placed upon or affixed to real property for the sole purpose of carrying on a trade or business.”⁵⁵

In order to qualify as a trade fixture, and be deemed personal property, the Storage Units first must be considered either machinery or equipment. As explained below, we find that the Storage Units are neither machinery nor equipment and, therefore, we conclude the Storage Units are not “trade fixtures.”

The term “machinery” is not defined in Section 77-105 or in Sections 77-102 to 77-132.⁵⁶ It is also not defined in the applicable Rules & Regulations. “Machinery” is commonly defined as, “the working parts of a machine.”⁵⁷ Black’s Law Dictionary defines “machine” as “[a] device or apparatus consisting of fixed and moving parts that work together to perform some function.”⁵⁸ And “machine” is also commonly defined as, “an assemblage of parts that transmit forces, motions, and energy one to another in a predetermined manner.”⁵⁹ The Storage Units have no fixed and moving parts that work together as a machine to transmit any force, motion, or energy. Therefore, we find that the Storage Units are not machinery.

We next turn to whether the Storage Units are “equipment.” The ⁵⁴ Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-105 (Reissue 2018).

⁵⁵ Title 350 Neb. Admin. Code ch 10, § 002.24 (10/2014).

⁵⁶ “Manufacturing machinery and equipment” and “agricultural machinery and equipment” are or were (at all times relevant) defined at Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-2701.47(1) (Reissue 2018) and Neb. Rev. Stat. § 77-2704.36 (Reissue 2018) respectively, but the Storage Units clearly do not fall under either of these definitions.

⁵⁸ Black’s Law Dictionary 1138 (11th ed. 2019).

term “equipment” is also not defined in Section 77-105, in Sections 77-102 to 77-132, or in any applicable Rules & Regulations. “Equipment” is commonly defined as, “the implements used in an operation or activity.”⁶⁰ Black’s Law Dictionary defines “equipment” as “[t]he articles or implements used for a specific purpose or activity.”⁶¹ The Storage Units are not implements used in an operation or activity. They function as a receptacle for the purpose of the storage of personal property owned by tenants. Without clear statutory or regulatory language directing a different conclusion, we find that the Storage Units are not “equipment.”

Even assuming, arguendo, that the Storage Units could properly be classified as either machinery or equipment under Section 77-105, in order to qualify as a “trade fixture” the Storage Units must also be “used in commercial, manufacturing, or processing activities.”⁶²

When analyzing the use requirement of Section 77-105, we look at what specific activity is being conducted. The Nebraska Supreme Court has provided guidance for this analysis: “[t]he statutory language [of Section 77-105] clearly focuses on the activity being conducted ..., not who is conducting that activity.”⁶³ In the instant case, the activity being conducted is the storage of personal property by a renter of a Storage Unit. We find, therefore, that since the use is personal, and not “directly” for “commercial, manufacturing, or processing activities,” the Storage Units are not “trade fixtures” under Section 77-105.

2. Are the Storage Units Personal Property?

Since we have found above that the Storage Units are real property under Section 77-103(2), and not “trade fixtures” under Sections 77-103 and 77-105, and since personal property is defined as, “all property other than real property,”⁶⁴ we must conclude that the Storage Units are not personal property.

VI. CONCLUSION

The Commission finds that there is not competent evidence to rebut the presumption that the County Board faithfully performed its duties and had sufficient competent evidence to make its determination. The Commission also finds that there is not clear and convincing evidence that the County Board’s decision was arbitrary or unreasonable.

For all of the reasons set forth above, the determination of the County Board should be affirmed.
